

Psyche Southwell

Faculty Affiliate

Psyche Southwell, faculty affiliate at the Institute for Workplace Innovation (iWin), joined the University of Kentucky College of Social Work as an assistant professor in 2008. Broadly speaking, her research interests include child poverty, the intergenerational transmission of well-being, and social policy. Her projects attend to central questions about how people get out of poverty and how the capability approach enhances our understanding of human wellbeing. Psyche completed graduate studies in economics and social work at Washington University in St. Louis.
